EDITORIAL

Welcome to the first edition of ChainLincs for 2026, it was nice for all of us that contribute to have break for a month but back to normal this month and group rides start again on 8 February (weather permitting).

Thanks to Jayne bell this month for her article (Yugoslavia September 2025) on her trip to Yugoslavia last year and Jerry has done a great resume of what you can do in the IAM in his Observer bit on Page 9.

For the first Social this year on Wednesday 4 February we have a speaker, it is Dave Ayres of FliesontheVisor.com fame. Please come along to the Nags Head in Middle Rasen to support him. The title of his talk is 'Why am I doing this?"

As you can see from my Facebook roundup there are often extra rides laid on a short notice by some of our members so if you want to know what's going on Facebook is the place to look. By being a Facebook member you will get to know about them before and not just read about them afterwards in here. If you haven't found our Facebook page go to \(1\) Lincolnshire Advanced Motorcyclists | Facebook and ask to join to see all the other exciting things that go on. It is a private page so not open to the public's prying eyes.

I need your help to make ChainLincs a worthwhile read so if you have anything you want to share with other members whether your recent IAM journey or other advanced riding experience (RoSPA), your experience at a track day, a recap of a European tour or an experience that may have happened on the road that others can learn from or anything else you can think of please send it to me for inclusion at lincs.am.editor@btinternet.com.

CHATTER FROM THE CHAIR

Happy New Year everyone.

Firstly, a warm welcome to new member Martin Laverack. I'm told he is not on his own, but all the 'proper paperwork' hasn't come through yet so, watch this space, you haven't been forgotten.

I don't know about you readers, but the New Year seems such a long time ago. It also seems a such a long time since I've had my bike out. It actually isn't that long, (for some lucky retirees like myself), there were a couple of moments when the rain stopped, the salt was washed away and it wasn't too windy. Sadly, not long enough for a good ride, but better times are coming. Hopefully, we might see some occasional warmer/drier days in the weeks to come when we might think it's safe to venture out.

In the middle of Jan, I was sent this picture from fellow member, Observer and Northern Observer Group leader Mike Day (he knows I have an interest in these signs).

Quite a dramatic and very welcome reduction in road deaths. These figures show all road traffic, so not just motorcycles. What they also don't tell us is anything about 'other suffering' that has happened. Any collision, any vehicle, whether resulting in paintwork damage at the lighter end of the scale, or physical personal damage (at the heavier end of the scale) can leave emotional scars to the people involved and also their loved ones, not forgetting to the witnesses and first responders.

January is a long cold dark generally wet month. It is known for being a time of depression even without the above. 'Samaritans' (plugging a different charity) offer a gentle listening ear for anyone needing to talk about anything that's bothering them, however 'minor'. Freephone number 116 123, the lines are manned 24/7 and you won't be judged.

Due to an ankle injury before Xmas, I didn't get to put on my annual ride out to the Sheffield Peaks, watch this space, because I fully intend to ride that route again, but only in decent weather.

Remember, just because you can doesn't mean you should.
Thank you,
Ride safe, Look after each other.
Ian (Chair).

There has been one new member enrolment since the December newsletter.

New Year, New Challenge?

Welcome to the first Chain Lincs of 2026, and a celebration 70th year for IAM RoadSmart for helping to make roads safer. It has been really encouraging to see some recent Associate test passes despite some poor weather conditions, also LAM Observer trainees and their mentors working throughout the winter in preparation for their up-coming National Observer qualification assessment, well done.

As well as all the options mentioned below, remember, LAM have a regular Sunday morning Observed ride open to all members (details always in Chain Lincs) this is a great opportunity for Associates to gain Advanced riding knowledge and skills, and meet other members of LAM, plus a great opportunity for Full members to guard against skill fade.

When you have passed the Advanced test, this should be considered the start of your Advanced journey. There are many more options that open up to you along that journey.

FELLOW

IAM RoadSmart Fellow membership

Our Fellow membership is open to all current full IAM RoadSmart members. It provides you with enhanced recognition in return for your commitment to keep your advanced skills up to date by retesting every three years with us.

Our research clearly shows that advanced driving and riding skills deteriorate over time, and that three years is a pivotal timeframe to check and refresh those skills. Fellow membership costs £70 per year (or £65 if you pay by Direct Debit) and it includes the cost of your retest.

What are the benefits of becoming a Fellow

- Confidence in knowing that your advanced driving/riding skills are up to date and in line with the current IAM RoadSmart standards
- Inclusion in our online Register of Fellow members
- Exclusive Fellow membership certificate upon passing the Fellow entry test or the Fellow requalification
- Ability to pay for your 3-year re-test in 3 instalments (the re-test fee is paid together with your annual membership subscription).

How to become a Fellow member

Simply choose the application process that matches your membership circumstances

If your most recent IAM advanced test pass was less than three years ago

Then all you need to do is to advise us that you wish to become a Fellow and we will adjust your membership details immediately and you'll become a Fellow right away. After 3 years we will remind you that it's time to retest. Call 0300 303 1134 to switch now.

If your latest IAM advanced test was over three years ago

Please book a Fellow car or motorcycle entry test using the links below, and upon passing you'll be made a Fellow for three years from the date of your entry test pass. Call 0300 303 1134 to book your Fellow entry test.

Become an IMI Qualified Observer

To take on the role of Observer, it is necessary to hold the National Observer qualification. Becoming a National Observer means you can deliver our Advanced Driving and Riding courses and is essential for the role of National Observer Assessor, Masters Mentor or Skills Day Instructor.

The LAM Observer team are geared up to assist any member that would like to take the IMI Observer Qualification, doing Observer duties can be very rewarding, not financially, but the reward of assisting another rider to achieve the Advanced test is a great feeling of achievement, it will certainly take your riding skills and riding knowledge to the next level. If you would like to find out what is involved in completing the IMI Qualification then give me a call 07412935333

MASTERS

The IAM RoadSmart Masters standard offers the ultimate challenge for civilian drivers and riders.

Open to all current IAM RoadSmart members, our Masters programme provides true one-to-one mentoring support and guidance that will help you to attain the highest standard of civilian driving or riding ability in the country. There are no exemption qualifications to our Masters standard. On completion of the Masters programme, your name will be entered into the Masters Register.

Masters candidates are expected to travel to test locations as tests are not conducted in an area local to the candidate. Travel and accommodation costs are the responsibility of the candidate.

Building on your skills as an existing advanced road user the Masters programme will help to enhance and develop your ability even further in the following areas:

- Applying cornering principles
- Assessing, planning and executing safe overtaking manoeuvres
- Recognising opportunities to make safe progress (within the speed limits)
- Improving observation, anticipation and awareness consistent with vehicle speed
- Applying sound judgement of speed and distance
- Delivering a fluent, relevant and continuous commentary
- We recommend that potential motorcycle Masters candidates read the Full Control document first.

To purchase the Masters course please call 0300 303 1134

Joining the LAM Committee is another way to help within LAM. As a member of the Committee you will help with steering the group, and day to day activities that the group undertake to keep it on track and moving forward with current practices. If you feel that you have skills to help, have a chat with any of the current Committee members to find out what is involved.

Finally not forgetting the great IAM RoadSmart

Skills Days

IAM RoadSmart Skills Days allow drivers and riders, using their own car or motorcycle, the chance to develop their skills with qualified instructors, using four iconic racing circuits as a classroom.

The sessions are open to both IAM RoadSmart members and the general public, allowing attendees a rare chance to learn precision driving and riding techniques on a racing circuit, and to develop new skills that they can use when back on public roads.

Drivers and riders will either work on a one-to-one with an instructor, or as a part of a small group, and will be given the opportunity to put their new knowledge to practice on a track. Search Skills day 2026 on the IAM RoadSmart website to find out more.

There's lots of options within IAM Roadsmart to up skill and have some fun, Doing nothing shouldn't be an option for 2026!

Stay Safe Jerry

YUGOSLAVIA SEPTEMBER 2025

I've been doing big adventure trips by motorcycle and car for the last 20 years. Some organised and some self-planned. Whatever vehicle, they've generally included a percentage of unmade roads. However, my trip last September was an 'all tarmac' trip. I booked this particular tour with BMW Motorrad Tours because I particularly wanted to ride down to Dubrovnik and also visit the old bridge in Mostar that had been demolished during the Bosnian war.

I knew the tour leader from a previous trip but met the 13 others for the first time at Folkstone Eurotunnel. I suppose I shouldn't have been surprised that all the other bikes were big 1250cc BMWs with one older 1050, then there was me on my F700. There was one other lady rider so I didn't feel too much of an outsider. All the Brits were riding their own bikes but an American contingent of three couples, plus our French tour leader were on hired bikes (This would give a problem later on).

We set off at a fast pace down through France, into Switzerland where we rode the Grimsel, Furka and Gotthard passes on our way into northern Italy. I broke from the group during this time, preferring to ride alone. Less pressure, more enjoyment! After these first few days the usual comments had started about how well I ride. I kept the fact that I was an IAM Advanced Rider and former Observer from all but the 1050 rider who was also an IAM Observer.

The first day in Italy meant an early start to get through the traffic around Milan and required a lot of filtering (or white-lining for the Americans). As I only had top-box and tail pack I found it easier than the others who all had wide panniers. By the time we had got through it I was buzzin' and had great fun 'riding like an Italian' and 'playing with the traffic'. We pressed on down to Ancona on the east coast where we boarded the overnight ferry to Split in Croatia. Temperatures had been rising all the way and regularly in the low 30's, so having a day off the bikes to explore the beautiful historic city and harbour was very welcome.

We then hit the coast road down to Dubrovnik with beautiful fast bends all the way. Dubrovnik traffic was just one big jam, and now it was raining and surfaces were very slippery. After we made it to the hotel a gigantic thunderstorm hit and lit up the sky. Further heavy thundery showers persisted the next day, so it was just as well that we were not on the bikes again but exploring the old fortified city. I was walking round the Fortress walls when a 'Biblical' rain storm hit, and at one point about 100 of us took shelter in one of the towers for half an hour or so.

Next day we left the coast and headed into Bosnia, but the border guards wouldn't let the hired bikes in because they couldn't show a V5. So all the British that had crossed then had to be 'stamped' out again and returned into Croatia only having travelled some 10 metres into Bosnia. After much discussion we made for another border and this time all got through so headed to Sarajevo mostly following river valleys on good fast twisty roads with surprisingly good surfaces.

Sarajevo is a city of two halves, the Muslim side with it's bazars, Mosques and souks where you can eat Baclava cake and drink Bosnian coffee. The Christian side is typically western with all the usual shops and bars. There is an inset marker in the road where the two halves meet, meant to show union but actually points to how much division there still is, and evidence of the war is still fresh.

Next back along the river valleys to visit Mostar (the bridge is now completely rebuilt). It is beautiful but the place is a tourist trap. We stay a couple of hours then leave for Makarska on the Croatian coast and a lovely swim in the sea before sunset. Next morning it's back into Bosnia but this time heading north through national parkland on more good surfaced bendy roads. The riding down here is easy, fast and very enjoyable. At this point I'm often making my own way, stopping where I want, engaging with locals and taking in the scenery. As we head over into Slovenia through wooded hills the sky turns black and we finish the day taking a motorway shortcut on what more resembled a river. Full wet gear now deployed!

So, onwards into Austria, over the Grossglockner and to Garmisch in Germany. I left Garmisch alone about half an hour after the main group and the first problem was my headlamp failure. I always carry a spare bulb so fixed it at the side of the road while I chatted with a local guy who was trimming his hedge and who wanted to talk motorcycles. Then I found that all roads to the west were closed so I eventually headed north, looking for a 'big' left. There were more closures but I eventually got back on route some 100 miles later. I had stopped for petrol, lunch and to put a bit of air in my front tyre when six of the group that had left before me went past. Not sure how that happened!

During the next three days we made our way northwards through Germany, France and Vosges region and I am now choosing to travel alone. There were a few motorway tailbacks to navigate, an exit that I missed, plus a 'stability' warning light needing investigating. I pulled into an 'Aire' parking area where I removed all the luggage to access my Owners' manual, which drew interest from the motor-homers who looked on while they ate their lunch! Problem sorted, luggage reloaded and off again to our last overnight at Marche-en-Famenne in Belgium before the Calais Eurotunnel.

At the Eurotunnel we said our farewells and boarded the train to Blighty. Being tea-time I hit heavy traffic at the Dartford tunnel and M25. It was odd being on the left side of the road, also much colder too but if I pressed on I could make it home before dark. I totalled 3200 miles, visited places I had wanted to go to and had a lovely bunch of travelling companions, even if I didn't ride with them half the time, they were there to eat, drink and laugh with each evening and share the days adventures.

Jayne Bell

EVENTS DIARY

The Sunday morning Group Observed Rides are open to all members and also potential members who may be considering preparing for the IAM test.

The prime purpose is to provide the opportunity to hone/improve skills through riding with fellow members.

Potential members considering taking the IAM test may have an individual assessment ride.

Rides usually last around two hours: often with a mid-point refreshment stop.

Depending on numbers / balance etc., it is customary for different groupings to embark on a ride style of their choice as they feel fit.

The main purpose is to have the opportunity to ride with fellow like-minded bikers.
